LIFE OF PAYNE-ALDRICH LAW NEARLY DONE.

DUTCH CARRY HOLLAND

Maine Election Was in Blaine's District, Strongly Republican—Judge Thompson Is After a Patent.

(By W. C. Van Cleve.)
Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—After an uneventful week last week, this week opened up with big doings in both ends of the capitol. The senate passed the tariff bill after it had been before that body for four long weary months, and the house today sent it to conference at once without debate. There is no question but an early agreement will be reached between the two houses and that it will be promptly signed by the president. So the days of the iniquitous Payne-Aldrich law are but few. The bill as passed by the senate carries six hundred and seventy-six amendments to the original house bill, and it is agreed that most of them have strengthened and improved the bill, and these will not be seriously opposed by the house conferees. Many duties have been lowered and the free list extended. In the final vote two Progressives, Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Poindexter of Washington, joined with the Democrats and supported the bill.

The currency bill has also been reported in the house and is now under consideration. It will likely take all of this and next week to pass it through the house, and a great effort will be made to pass it through the senate before adjournment if a quorum can be maintained. The senators are thoroughly tired and worn out with their long fight on the tariff bill and many of them had their grips packed to leave town when the tariff bill was passed. A couple of weeks of rest with cooler weather may serve to reinvigorate them and give them an appetite for another contest. The proponents of the Glass bill claim that it will fill a long felt want in the currency world and give the country a much needed elasticity of credit and exchange.

Republicans generally claim to be greatly elated by the election of a Republican congressman from the state of Maine. Evidently they have reached the point where it takes very little to comfort them. The case in question is simply a matter of the Dutch carrying Holland. The district from which Mr. Peters has just been elected is the old district represented so long by James G. Blaine, and never did elect a Democrat to congress but once, and that was because of the unpopularity of the Republican nominee and not because of Democratic strength. As a matter of fact Democrats have reason to be well pleased because of the fact that their candidate came within five hundred votes of being elected in the face of a slump of one-half in the Progressive vote as compared with last fall.

Judge Thompson of Guilford was here last week arranging to secure a patent on a device he has invented which he believes will revolutionize the work of manure spreading and incidentally become very valuable to the inventor. He received much encouragement from the patent experts here and left for home well pleased.

A fellow from West Virginia strolled into the executive offices at the White House a few days ago and expressed a desire for an interview with the president. After waiting for some time he evinced a willingness to talk, and in the course of his remarks to the employees, he declared that "if this administration don't soon turn out some Republicans and put Democrats on guard, the Democratic party will never come into power again." He soon convinced the secret service men on guard that he was crazy and was locked up and sent to an asylum. He may be crazy, but there are a whole lot of people who believe there is enough wisdom in that one remark to stone for all his other shortcomings and to save him at least from the alienists.

Returned From Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gray returned Friday evening from a three weeks visit to Starkweather, S. D., where they visited their daughter, Mrs. C. L. Ellis.

Miss Mildred Robinson and Miss Gertrude Wright will leave Monday for Des Moines, Ia., to enter Drake university.

SERVICES DISCONTINUED.

Owing to the Cool Weather, First M. E. and Presbyterian In Its Own Building Sunday.

Now that the weather has turned cool the Sunday evening union services of the First Methodist and First Presbyterian churches will be discontinued. Tomorrow night each church will hold its service in its own building.

The union meetings which have been held in the court house yard every Sunday evening since the first of July have been a great success. They have been a means of keeping up enthusiasm among the members of the two churches and have been largely attended. In fact the whole plan of having Rev. Harkness preach to the united congregations during Rev. Cox's vacation and vice versa has more than met with expectations, and both the ministers and church members are well pleased with the success of it.

WILL LEAVE FOR CONFERENCE.

Rev. Gilbert S. Cox of the First M. E. Church to Go on September 26.

The conference of the Methodist Episcopal churches of the northern part of the state will be held at Trenton, Mo., beginning on October 1. They will be in session until October 6.

Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor of the First M. E. church of this city, will attend the conference. The other ministers in the county who will attend are Rev. W. E. Royston of the Barnard charge, Rev. L. C. Sappenfield of Burlington Junction, Rev. W. F. Wiley of Clearmont, Rev. H. K. Morgia of Graham, Rev. T. C. Taylor of Hopkins, Rev. Horn of Parnell, Rev. H. J. Ducker of Pickering and Rev. C. H. Sauceman of Skidmore.

BERT EVANS ACQUITTED.

Jury in City Police Court Finds That He is Not Guilty of Charge of Affray.

The case of the city vs. Bert Evans was on trial in the city police court on Friday afternoon. Evans was charged with affray, Roy Yeaman being the other party. The jury that heard the case found Evans not guilty. The jury was composed of W. R. Hughes, D. E. Hotchkiss, Frank Reavis, Harry Lyle, Lawrence Schumacher and John Swartz. The case was tried before Mayor Robey and the city was represented by Attorney W. H. Crawford, and Evans by Cook, Cummins & Dawson.

WILL MEET TOMORROW.

Board of Directors of Chautauqua to Discuss Program at Meeting.

The board of directors of the Nodaway Chautauqua have planned to meet once a month to discuss the progress of the plans for next summer's session. The first of these meetings will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the recital hall of the Maryville Conservatory of Music.

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN.

Former Political Leader Escaped From Guards at Brother's Country Place.

Friends of "Big Tim" Sullivan were greatly worried on learning that the former political leader and philanthropist escaped from the guards at his brother's country home on the Eastchester road, near Williamsburg. Those in the secret hunt almost abandoned hope after futile hours of search. Though in robust condition, apparently, it is said, there has been little improvement in his mental condition.

U. S. ENTERS MAGAZINE FIELD.

First Issue of Farm Journal Will Be Put Out This Month.

The United States government is going into the magazine publishing business for the benefit of the farmers. This is the announcement made yesterday by the department of agriculture, which adds that the first issue of the magazine will be out this month and that other issues will follow regularly at monthly intervals. The publication will be devoted principally to a detailed review of crop conditions nationally and by states.

This information will be prepared in a purely popular way," Assistant Secretary Galoway said, "with a view to enabling the farmer to determine at a glance just what plant crop and animal conditions are prevailing in his own state as compared with other individual states and the country at large and important foreign producing area."

It is the department's purpose to make the magazine, which will bear the title of The Agricultural Outlook, a magazine of from eighteen to twenty pages. It will deal not alone with the production and condition of crops, but will instruct the farmer as to marketing his wares.

GUILFORD ITEMS.

Miss Bernice Kershaw was surprised Friday evening by a number of her friends coming to call at her home, two miles southwest of Guilford. The occasion was in honor of her birthday, and an enjoyable evening was had.

Henry Hackedorn has invested in a car load of steers for winter feeding. A. W. Nelson is feeding 130 head of western ewes on his farm, southeast of Guilford.

George B. Rimel hitched his team to his road drag this morning and put the streets of Guilford in first class shape.

Prof. C. C. Adams and Miss Mildred Adams visited in Guilford today. Prof. Adams was in charge of the Guilford school last year, but he and his daughter are now located at Ray, Mo., where they have a two-room school.

Guilford is to have a lecture course of five numbers this winter. It will be furnished by the Glazier company of Chicago. J. Kelly Wright, lecturer for the state board of agriculture, will probably fill one of the numbers.

Rev. S. E. Hoover, who was recently transferred from the Guilford and Ravenwood churches to the Agency church, visited in Guilford Saturday.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, South, held a remnant social this afternoon.

Mrs. William Jerauld, who was taken to a St. Joseph hospital Thursday night when suddenly seized with acute appendicitis, is recovering from the operation which was performed yesterday.

Will Attend Presbytery.

Rev. S. D. Harkness and Roy Curfman will leave Monday for Blythedale, Mo., where they will attend the fall meeting of the St. Joseph presbytery. They will return Thursday.

ARE FILLING SILOS.

A Large Number of Nodaway Countians Preparing Winter Food for Stock.

A large number of silos in this vicinity and in other places in Nodaway county are being filled this week. The corn is being cut up and will be kept green until used during the winter.

The silo is one of the greatest things a farmer can own. Possibly the first cost keeps many from building them, but when once put up they soon pay for themselves.

There will be a lack of feedstuff in some quarters this winter for stock and those who have silos will have no worry on this score. The ensilage is kept green all winter and the stock do much better when fed on this than when compelled to winter on dry feed. The farmer who fills his silo now with green corn will find that his stock will go through the winter better and the dairymen will also find that his cows will give more milk and he will be repaid well for the extra trouble and expense incurred.

SCIENCE TEACHER SELECTED.

Miss Ruth Carolina Russell of Chicago Has Been Chosen by the School Board.

Miss Ruth Carolina Russell of Chicago, Ill., has been selected by the school board as science teacher of the Maryville high school for the coming year, to take the place of Miss Winifred Ashby, who resigned this week. Word was sent to Miss Russell of her selection.

Miss Russell is a graduate of the Illinois state normal university and the University of Chicago. She has taught in the Allentown, Ill., school and also at Gwin, Mich.

WANT A PUBLIC WEDDING.

That's What One Woman Would Like to See at the Maryville Fall Festival in October.

Secretary John L. Hoffman of the Commercial club received a letter Saturday from a woman at Graham, in which she states that she would like to see a public wedding ceremony at the Maryville fall festival in October. She said that she knew of a couple in the Graham neighborhood who are thinking of marriage, and probably would be willing to be married at that time on Tuesday in September.

House bill No. 98 also passed by the last legislature, amends the same section in the same manner, prescribes the same method of electing committees, etc., and provides that the state convention shall be held at some place within the state fixed by the then state committee on the fourth Tuesday in August.

Both bills are laws enacted by the last legislature and approved March 27. The conflict is undoubtedly direct and some state officials will have to solve the mystery.—Columbia Times.

A New Day.

In the debate on the tariff bill in the senate the other day, Senator Williams said in reply to Senator Norris:

"The senator said a moment ago that a new day was dawning upon this country. The senator is mistaken. A new day has dawned upon this country. The sun is almost above the horizon. It is not yet the morning twilight, but the sky is showing the colors.

The great progressive party of America, the Democratic party, has been sent here to do its work, and it is going to do it. It is going to do it wisely, cautiously, carefully; and while it is doing it it is not going to disrupt everything in present conditions.

NO IMPROVEMENT

RAIN HAS NOT HELPED WATER SITUATION IN THE LEAST.

STILL WORKING ON DAM

Work of Sinking Piling Will Be Completed Today and Concrete Work Started at Once.

The water situation of Maryville is not yet solved, although we have had an inch and a half of rain. Manager Denny of the water company said this morning that the rain has not effected the river in the least, and he asks that the people still be careful not to waste water. He has an engine and pump in readiness to pump the water from the pools up the river at any time should the flow of the stream diminish, and as the rain has not drained to the river to increase the flow any it may become necessary to use the pumps.

Although this keeps the water supply near the unsafe margin, it is fortunate in that it has not interfered with the work on the dam. Engineer Flynt said this morning that the work of sinking the piling on which the dam is to stand would be completed today and the pouring of the concrete would begin at once, probably this afternoon, tonight at the latest.

SMOKE IS AN UNNECESSARY EVIL.

Manufacturers Lose Money by Not Consuming All Their Fuel.

Not all manufacturers are alive to the broad fact that it costs money to make smoke. Many do not realize that the black or dingy streams issuing from their stacks are in reality streams of unconsumed fuel. We have become so used to seeing stacks belching forth their black clouds that we unconsciously let it go as something inevitable, something that cannot really be helped.

But this condition of affairs is by no means an unavoidable one. The process of combustion is now so thoroughly understood that it is a general no longer necessary to waste fuel and money in making smoke. Furnaces may be run smokelessly. The mechanical stoker is a means of accomplishing this result that has been thoroughly tried out and proved successful. There are numerous varieties, some suiting certain conditions better than others. In view of what stoker manufacturers and boiler setting experts are now able to accomplish, there are probably but few cases where smoke is a necessary evil.—Cassier's Monthly.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF MOON.

Phenomena Will Occur at 4:52 A. M. September 16.

The moon will be in total eclipse next Tuesday. It will enter the shadow at 4:52 a. m., and will be visible to the greater part of North America.

The Pacific coast will have the best opportunity of seeing the luminary become darkened, as the time there will be 2:52, when the moon enters the shadow, two hours earlier than at Kansas City, and long enough before day light to allow the moon to pass into absolute obscurity before the sun rises.

The Cost System for Farms.

Near LaMonte, Mo., lives J. E. Hall. He is a farmer by choice and believes in scientific farming. He knows just what he is doing at all times. Three years ago Mr. Hall placed his farm under the supervision of Prof. D. H. Doane of the University of Missouri. Since then he has rotated his crops as directed by Professor Doane. Not a move has been made that was not passed upon by the expert. No grain has been grown for the market. Everything raised goes back into the soil.

Mr. Hall's chief claim to distinction is in his methods of keeping track of his business. He values his farm at $16,000. Last year he netted 11 per cent on his investment. This is not guess work in his case. He knows that he is that much richer, for he keeps just such a daily record of operations as is kept by all successful industries. His own time is figured at 15 cents an hour; and of his wife and eldest son at the same rate. Two other children draw 12 and 7 cents an hour. Every fifteen minute working period is accounted for, and Mr. Hall finds that the most interesting hour of the day is in the evening, when all the members of the family gather around the table with their time books to figure up their day's activities. This is why Mr. Hall knows that he netted 11 per cent in 1912, after allowing wages to each member of his family.

There is no reason why Mr. Hall's system could not be followed on every farm in the country. Aside from the satisfaction to be derived from knowing just what the profit or loss may be each year, the instilling of ideas of system into the minds of children is certain to have a beneficial effect on their lives. And the hard working wife is given an opportunity to realize that her services are appreciated, and that she is something more than a mere cog in the farm machine.

The cost system has found its place in all modern business institutions and Mr. Hall has demonstrated that it has a place on the successful farm.—Kansas City Times.

H. B. Polson, manual training teacher for the high school, arrived in the city last night from his home in Kirksville, Mo.

Mrs. J. F. Colby and small nephew, Joseph Ford Jackson, went to St. Joseph Saturday morning to spend the day.

MISSOURI IS O. K.While There Has Been Shrinkage in Crops, the Farmers Are in Easy Fúrrós.

The good old state of Missouri comes through the period of hot, dry weather in very nice shape, thank you, says the Capper Bulletin of Topeka, Kan. The Missouri farmers have plenty of money and are going to buy more automobiles and improved farm machinery this year and next than any previous years. They are going to build new barns, erect hundreds of silos and improve their farms and farm buildings in many ways. They are now and will through the month of September, load their families into touring cars and enjoy themselves at the big county fairs, held in most of the counties throughout the state. They are enjoying themselves at basket picnics, where fried chicken is as free as water and everybody is welcome; while the city people and the metropolitan dailies worry about the heat and the farmer is resting under the shade, contented with his lot.

And he does not think this is such a bad year.

And when the returns are all in it will be found that the 277,244 Missouri farms have produced their usual good crops.

In 1911, when the rainfall was less than it has been so far this year, Missouri produced 191,334,220 bushels of corn; last year 242,043,220 bushels.

The prospects a few weeks ago were for a "bumper" corn crop, and the secretary of the state board of agriculture, so conservative that we sometimes get disgusted with him, estimated the corn crop for 1913 in Missouri at 250,000,000 bushels. We will not have the "bumper" crop expected, but will raise probably 200,000,000 bushels. As an evidence of the secretary of agriculture's conservatism, he has all along predicted that the wheat crop of Missouri this year would be about 20,000,000 bushels. It is now conceded that it will not be less than 37,000,000 bushels. This is 17,000,000 more than was threshed out last year.

The actual conditions in the state at this time, in regard to corn, are as follows:

In the northwest, north central and northeast sections of the state corn will produce a medium to good crop. About 75 per cent of our corn is grown in these sections. In the southwest part of the state the corn crop will be poor except in two tiers of southern counties, which will be fair. In central Missouri the corn crop will be fair to poor, except in a few counties, which will be unusually good.

For instance: Saline county will produce a splendid corn crop, Pettis county will produce a good crop of corn, while the adjoining county, Johnson, has been very dry and the crop will be poor. In southeast Missouri the corn crop promises to be good. In fact, the prospects are better than they were a month ago in this section.

The rains of the year have been more or less local and there are several counties that will produce splendid corn crops in one section of the county and poor in another because of the localized rainfall.

The fruit crop is unusually heavy.

For instance: In the Ozark counties, of which Springfield, Mo., is the center, $2,000,000 worth of peaches are now going to market. Farmers do not depend as much on corn now as they formerly did and forage crops are produced, which will enable the farmers to get along with much less corn than heretofore.

The fruit crop is unusually heavy.

For instance: In the Ozark counties, of which Springfield, Mo., is the center, $2,000,000 worth of peaches are now going to market. Farmers do not depend as much on corn now as they formerly did and forage crops are produced, which will enable the farmers to get along with much less corn than heretofore.

CALIFORNIAN DIES OF BUBONIC PLAGUE

Martinez Laborer Succumbs to Dread Scourge.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 13.—A death from bubonic plague oc-urred at Martinez, Cal., according to reports received by the California state board of health from Dr. J. D.
Long of the United States marine hospital service in San Francisco. At the same time a message was received by the board from its secretary, Dr. W.
F. Snow, now in Washington, stating that the federal government had decided to appropriate $40,000 additional to fight the disease.

The body of the Martinez victim, whose name has been withheld, was examined by Dr. D. H. Curry of the federal laboratory service in San Francisco. Dr. Long personally passed upon the examination before pronouncing the case one of plague.

A Japanese woman in San Benito county, it was said at the health of ice, died of bubonic plague in June of this year. These two cases are the only ones reported in many months.

New York, Sept. 13.—Governor Sulzer's transactions in Wall street from June 27, 1910, till they ceased—at least so far as one firm of brokers was concerned—on July 14 last, were described under oath by Melville D. Fuller, who said he was Sulzer's broker in a hearing held by the nine impeachment managers appointed by the assembly.

Fuller testified that Sulzer had paid him $16,000 in person within a month and a day after the last election and that he (Fuller) had no dealings with Mrs. Sulzer.

THAW CASE UP TO GOV. FELKER

His Counsel Hope to Have Hearing Before Executive.

THREE LEAVE FOR CAPITAL

If Extradition Granted, to Fall Back on Habeas Corpus Writ—Dutchess County Sheriff Heading for Cole-brook With Extradition Warrant.

Colebrook, N. H., Sept. 13.—The protracted court battle denied Harry K.
Thaw in Canada by his sudden deportation promises to be waged in New Hampshire. His newly retained counsel hope to have a personal hearing before Governor Felker on the matter of extradition, and should extradition be granted to carry the matter to the state supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus. Three of these attorneys, N. E. Martin of Concord, Willard H. Olmsted of New York and Merrill Shurtliff of Colebrook, hurried to the capital.

Sheriff Hornbeck of Dutchess county, New York, wherein is located the Matteawan asylum, from which Thaw escaped, is en route here with the requisition warrant signed by Acting Governor Glynn. As the document first must be laid before Governor Felker, the New York lawyers were chagrined at the sheriff's mistake in heading for Colebrook. Upon his arrival he or some other representative of the state's interests will be turned back to Concord. Why Hornbeck started for this place was a mystery to William Travers Jerome, who for three weeks has been trying to get Thaw back to the asylum.

Expect Hearing Wednesday.

Wednesday night, according to Thaw's lawyers, they expect to have their hearing before Governor Felker.
They estimate that three days will elapse before he can render a decision.
If this is adverse they will apply at once for a writ of habeas corpus. Argument on this probably would be postponed for another week.

This would mean days of weary waiting unless Jerome could engineer some coup. He has in mind now a plan instantly to seize the fugitive in case his deportation is ordered, thus blocking the efficacy of the habeas corpus writ by concealing from the Thaw counsel the identity of the individual to whom Thaw would be given in charge. The writ would have to be directed against the prisoner's custodian at the time, and if Jerome could work quickly enough and with sufficient secrecy his plan might be successful.

Not Brought Into Court.

In view of the intention of fighting the case out at Concord, Thaw was not brought into court in Colebrook, and it is probable that on Monday he will be taken to the capital preparatory to the arguments for and against surrendering him to New York. The chief argument of his lawyers will be that New York seeks his extradition on a charge of conspiracy—a charge which they contend New York never purposes to try him on. They will contend that extradition in such circumstances is a subterfuge and that there are precedents to sustain them in this.

Thaw left his hotel room for out of doors but once, to go to the barber shop. The sheriff and ten special guards accompanied him.

and Attorney Charles B. Harris of Sac-in the testimony of Nellie Barton, the young woman who has sworn she was induced to act as a go-between, bearing instructions to Marsha Warrington so as to enable Diggs to escape conviction under the Mann act. They admitted that Miss Barton had been summoned to a conference with them and that she had been the bearer of a message to Miss Warrington, but stoutly declared that nothing savoring of subornation of perjury entered into the conversation or message.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 13.—"An American cannot walk down the streets of Mexico City without being insulted by natives," said James L. Black, a mine owner in the state of Oaxaca, who arrived here from Mexico City. "They push Americans into the street and when protest is made they laugh at them and often spit in their faces.
It is unsafe for an American woman to go on the streets, even with an escort, without fear of insults from the Mexicans. The Americans can do nothing, as the police will do nothing to assist them."

CAPT. CARAVEO ARRESTED

American in Custody at Juarez.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 13.—Captain Santa Ana Caraveo, a Mexican federal officer, who is charged with killing Edward Hayes, an American at Madera, Chihuahua, Aug. 16, was arrested in Juarez by the military authorities in compliance with a request by the American state department for his apprehension. It is charged that Caraveo and his wife rode through the streets of Madera with a band of eight Mexican soldiers, seeking Americans, and that they shot and killed Hayes and a negro, John Henry Thomas, also an American citizen.

A special train bearing American and other foreign refugees from Chi-
huahua without troop protection. The train is flying white flags in the hope that rebels will not molest it. By request of the Americans on board no federal troops accompanied the train.

CITY MARSHAL RESIGNS

Calaboose at Kingston, Mo., Is Sold for Hen House.

Kingston, Mo., Sept. 13.—Lante Oliver, city marshal of Kingston for fifteen years, resigned because, as he said, "there are no more duties for a marshal to perform in this town."

Once Marshal Oliver was a busy man. The door of the calaboose swung on well oiled hinges. Three drug stores did a saloon business without a bar. There were two pool halls and a bowling alley. But times changed, dry sentiment ran out two of the drug stores. There is only one now and it is law-abiding. Pool halls and bowling alley were closed up. Arrests were so few that the town council sold the calaboose at auction. Bole Brown bought it for a hen house.

Oliver said his patriotism made him ashamed to draw his salary, and, besides, if he ever found anyone to arrest he would have no place to put him, so he resigned.

BRIEF SKETCH OF MAYOR GAYNOR

Of the many tributes to Mayor Gaynor from men of prominence in public life, one from Theodore Roosevelt was among those made public.

"Mayor Gaynor's career has not only been distinguished, but in all its characteristics unique," said Colonel Roosevelt. "We have lost in him not only one of the most fearless, but one of the most original and interesting of all our public servants, national and local."

Recalls Attempt on His Life.

Mayor Gaynor's death recalls the attempt on his life made by an assassin at Hoboken in August of 1910. On this occasion the mayor had decided to take a brief vacation abroad under the same circumstances under which he left here a week ago. He was standing on the deck of the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, talking with friends and the center of a group of city officials at the time.

Into this friendly gathering James J. Gallagher, the would-be assassin, made his way unobserved. When close to the mayor he drew a revolver and fired a shot. The bullet penetrated Mr. Gaynor's throat. He suffered from this serious injury for many weeks, but finally recovered to a sufficient degree to enable him to resume his duties and was apparently none the worse for his experience until recently, when the wound began to trouble him again.

Gallagher had been dismissed from the dock department of the city of New York under Mayor Gaynor, and had repeatedly endeavored to induce the mayor to reinstate him. For his crime he was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment. After little more than a year in prison he was transferred to the New Jersey state hospital for the insane at Trenton and died there last February.

Sketch of His Active Career.

William Jay Gaynor was born on a farm near Whitestown, N. Y., in 1851. He had to help the family there in its struggle for existence and in this fight he had to take time for his own education. He graduated from the Whitestown seminary, went to Boston to teach school and afterwards studied law in the office of Ward Hunt of Utica, who later became a justice of the supreme court of New York. In 1873 young Gaynor went to Brooklyn and became a newspaper reporter. Two years later he was admitted to the bar.

From that moment until his death Gaynor has lived in the midst of continual political warfare. He started it with an attack on the unlicensed saloons in Flatbush, a section of Brooklyn, and won. Then years later he led a successful fight against the so-called McLaughlin ring in Brooklyn. His battle against John Y. McKane, boss of Sheephead Bay and Coney Island, attracted nation wide attention. McKane died in Sing Sing. Gaynor was elected a justice of the supreme court of New York in 1893 on a nomination given him by Republican and independent Democrats, was re-elected in 1907, but resigned to accept the nomination of mayor of New York city, to which office he was elected in November, 1909.

His career as mayor of New York bore the imprint of his personality in many striking innovations. As he expressed it, "I never quarreled with the organized leaders, because I was too busy. I simply went on and did my work from day to day, and kept their hands out of the public treasury."

Prior to the Democratic national convention in Baltimore in June, 1912, mention of his name was frequent in connection with the Democratic nomination for president. He did not have the support of the Democratic organization in this, however, and was not an active candidate for the honor.

Ernest Welborn was a St. Joseph visitor Saturday.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Have Faith in the Home Man.

It is true today as it was 1900 years ago that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country." The lack of appreciation by home people has caused many a man to leave a town and seek a new community in which to begin an enterprise. Thus a new industry which might have helped this town to grow was lost because its people lacked faith in the home man.

The man who goes away and succeeds is readily acknowledged by the people of his home town as a genius. Many an inventor and many a projector of new enterprises has had this experience; it is common, indeed, to all mankind. Persons in many communities have not sufficiently appreciated what their neighbors were accomplishing or could achieve and so many a man has gone elsewhere and found the recognition that was denied him at home. Give credit and backing to the home man. Have faith in him and encourage him. If this is done fully and freely it will go a long way toward keeping at home many a man who otherwise will go elsewhere to find moral and financial backing.

There is genius in this town as well as in any other. If you know of a man who has something to develop, don't let him go elsewhere. Help him to get a start right here. Commercial enterprises are a benefit to any town, and we should have sufficient pride in this town to want it to grow.—American Lumberman.

The Gossip.

None can hope to hold a candle for persistence in the vandal who goes peddling bits of scandal up and down the village street; when he should be busy hoeing in the garden patch or mowing on foul errands he is going, traveling on eager feet. "Have you heard the latest story on J. William Hunkydory?" asks the scoundalmonger hoary, as you try to pass him by.

"Have you heard what they are telling on Jim Rooster's sister Ellen?" And the weird and wicked felon then repeats some evil lie. Maybe when this freak was younger for good tales he had a hunger, but become a scoundalmonger, nothing suits him but a base; ne'er a word of admiration for a soul in all the nation, not one of appreciation ever trickles from his face. Does he ever pause to wonder why in thunder people try to stand from under when his voice he would upraise, why the people dodge and shun him—save the ones who come to dun him—why they show a wish to run him from the village 'twixt two days? This is true, my friends, be jokers; if you lie about your neighbors, then the wages for your labors will be deathless with scorn and hate; tell stories not demanded, doing actions underhanded, finally will see you landed where partial congregate.—Walt Mason.

Women and Waiting.

It sometimes seems to me that this is an anguish in which we live and of which men know nothing. During the course of a long life every woman passes so many hours of still agony, when she must fold her hands and smile and wait. We cannot go out seeking the beloved, but must sit and wait until he comes. When you have had a misunderstanding it is not yours to run generously forward; you can't clap your hat on your head and say,

"Here, I'll make an end to this; I'll go and find her." No; you must sit waiting for the sound of his footsteps coming toward you; wait until your whole soul is tense, wait until each sound is part of his hope deferred. All women know this pain, and when our time of waiting for a sweetheart is over the sons we love go out in the world, and again we must sit still and wait for news of the traveler. We sit and wait for our children to be born, through the long months, with the black certainty of the birth that may be death staring us in the face.

I am sorry sometimes for all women, and most of all for the impatient and tender spirits of young girls who meet this plan for the first time.—Mary Heaton Vorse, in Woman's Home Companion.

FLOWER OF NATURE

Engineer Sent to the Wild West Learned Many Things—and Love.

By GERTRUDE MARY SHERIDAN.

A fairer picture Burt Dawson fancied he had never seen, and for a minute or two he paused, screened by the leafy verdure. A girl, tall, fair, had filled her pitcher at the spring. Ere she took it up to carry it to the house, two hundred yards distant, she stood looking into the face of the radiant sunset. A golden haze surrounded her. In her simple gown, classic as that of some Roman maiden, her lithe willowy form, the bare feet not even sandaled, she reminded one of some naiad posing for portrait in imperishable marble.

Her eyes brightened as young Dawson stepped into view. All the lines of face and form became more distinctly human and expressive. She seemed to realize that his presence filled out the picture with a new and delicious intensity.

"I start on my mission in the morning," he said. "It will seem a lonely jaunt, more of a wilderness than ever after the beautiful days I have passed in this haven of rest."

"My uncle has told me," said Eloise, and paused there and a faint film seemed to dim those beautiful eyes and a quiver crossed her face. "He fears you are taking a dangerous risk, and I—"

Again she paused. Her glance dropped as Burt approached nearer. He had taken her shapely hand.

"And you?" he intimated gently, and his tones carried a tremulous thrill.

"I hope I have not brought you trouble," she said wistfully. "I wish that you would not undertake this perilous mission." Her hands began to tremble, and she placed them pleadingly upon his arm. The tears came into her eyes.

It seemed if she wanted comfort, sympathy, yes, even protection. He could not resist the appeal of that bonny wild rose face. His arm crept about her as she lifted her glance. She could not help but read the earnest look in his honest eyes.

"Don't go," she whispered. "Oh, for my sake—let me go! I dare not—"

In amazement Burt felt her tear herself from his grasp, saw her dart towards the house like a hunted, frightened bird. Then he gave a quick start. Weaving his way in and out of the dense underbrush, he made out a skulking form. This Eloise had seen, this lurking presence had driven her soul to vivid alarm, just within the cherished clasp of the man who had come into her life like a gleam of sunlight.

There flashed through Burt's mind as he stood there the picture of a week past. It was a wild western district, infested by strangely rude and vicious characters. There was a barren strip on the Oklahoma side of the country that had been a place of refuge for fugitives from justice for years. He had been sent by the engineering firm employing him to inspect the district in conjunction with a new irrigation and railroad project. He had arrived at the border town of Fifield one week previous. It was necessary for him to make inquiries there before he prosecuted his journey. He had been directed to Mr. Treherne, the uncle of Eloise, who was acquainted through the entire section. He had found him to be a former itinerant preacher, but now living some miles from town and engaged in a small cooperage business. He and his niece led the truly simple life.

Burt had become their welcome guest; the days had drifted on pleasantly. He had learned many things of the district he was to penetrate—and love.

Eloise was a pure, simple, beautiful flower of nature, her whole life seemed bound up in care for her uncle. One evening, however, Burt had a foretaste of the people he was destined to meet if he continued on his journey. Another uncle of Eloise, named John Rivers, accompanied by one Jeff Wadhams, came down from "the bad lands." Rivers was volatile in his demand that his niece should spend part of her time at his home over the border. Burt even surmised that it was Jeff Wadhams who was urging him to this.

"I am trying to be a man!" cried when she grabbed me. "You told me to be a man!" I wailed when she began to punish me.

"Brother and sister delegates, my appeal was in vain!"

Then he turned and walked stiffly and painfully from the platform. He hadn't sat down during the entire session.—Cleveland Leader.

a life partner. Very clearly Mr. Treherne told his brother-in-law that his demand would not be granted.

"I have raised her gently, educated her in my rude way," he explained. "She would languish and die in the wild, lawless life among you people."

Seemingly accepting this ultimate, the two visitors had departed. But now both Eloise and Burt had seen the lurking Jeff, and Burt knew that this meant trouble.

"You had better keep close to the house, both of you,"

LIFE OF PAYNE-ALDRICH LAW NEARLY DONE.

DUTCH CARRY HOLLAND

Maine Election Was in Blaine's District, Strongly Republican—Judge Thompson Is After a Patent.

(By W. C. Van Cleve.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—After an uneventful week last week, this week opened up with big doings in both ends of the capitol. The senate passed the tariff bill after it had been before that body for four long weary months, and the house today sent it to conference at once without debate. There is no question but an early agreement will be reached between the two houses and that it will be promptly signed by the president. So the days of the iniquitous Payne-Aldrich law are but few. The bill as passed by the senate carries six hundred and seventy-six amendments to the original house bill, and it is agreed that most of them have strengthened and improved the bill, and these will not be seriously opposed by the house conferees. Many duties have been lowered and the free list extended. In the final vote two Progressives, Senators La Follette of Wisconsin and Poindexter of Washington, joined with the Democrats and supported the bill.

The currency bill has also been reported in the house and is now under consideration. It will likely take all of this and next week to pass it through the house, and a great effort will be made to pass it through the senate before adjournment if a quorum can be maintained. The senators are thoroughly tired and worn out with their long fight on the tariff bill and many of them had their grips packed to leave town when the tariff bill was passed. A couple of weeks of rest with cooler weather may serve to reinvigorate them and give them an appetite for another contest. The proponents of the Glass bill claim that it will fill a long felt want in the currency world and give the country a much needed elasticity of credit and exchange.

Republicans generally claim to be greatly elated by the election of a Republican congressman from the state of Maine. Especially they have reached the point where it takes very little to comfort them. The case in question is simply a matter of the Dutch carrying Holland. The district from which Mr. Peters has just been elected is the old district represented so long by James G. Blaine, and never did elect a Democrat to congress but once, and that was because of the unpopularity of the Republican nominee and not because of Democratic strength. As a matter of fact Democrats have reason to be well pleased because of the fact that their candidate came within five hundred votes of being elected in the face of a stump of one-half in the Progressive vote as compared with last fall.

"BIG TIM" SULLIVAN.

Former Political Leader Escaped From Guards at Brother's Country Place.

Judge Thompson of Guilford was here last week arranging to secure a patent on a device he has invented which he believes will revolutionize the work of manure spreading and incidentally become very valuable to the inventor. He received much encouragement from the patent experts here and left for home well pleased.

A fellow from West Virginia strolled into the executive offices at the White House a few days ago and expressed a desire for an interview with the president. After waiting for some time he evinced a willingness to talk, and in the course of his remarks to the employees, he declared that "if this administration don't soon turn out some Republicans and put Democrats on guard, the Democratic party will never come into power again." He soon convinced the secret service men on guard that he was crazy and was locked up and sent to an asylum. He may be crazy, but there are a whole lot of people who believe there is enough wisdom in that one remark to stone for all his other shortcomings and to save him at least from the alienists.

Returned From Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gray returned Friday evening from a three weeks visit to Starkweather, S. D., where they visited their daughter, Mrs. C. L. Ellis.

Miss Mildred Robinson and Miss Gertrude Wright will leave Monday for Des Moines, Ia., to enter Drake university.

SERVICES DISCONTINUED.

Owing to the Cool Weather, First M. E. and Presbyterian In Its Own Building Sunday.

Now that the weather has turned cool the Sunday evening union services of the First Methodist and First Presbyterian churches will be discontinued. Tomorrow night each church will hold its service in its own building.

The union meetings which have been held in the court house yard every Sunday evening since the first of July have been a great success. They have been a means of keeping up enthusiasm among the members of the two churches and have been largely attended. In fact the whole plan of having Rev. Harkness preach to the united congregations during Rev. Cox's vacation and vice versa has more than met with expectations, and both the ministers and church members are well pleased with the success of it.

WILL LEAVE FOR CONFERENCE.

Rev. Gilbert S. Cox of the First M. E. Church to Go on September 30.

The conference of the Methodist Episcopal churches of the northern part of the state will be held at Trenton, Mo., beginning on October 1. They will be in session until October 6.

Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, pastor of the First M. E. church of this city, will attend the conference. The other ministers in the county who will attend are Rev. W. E. Royston of the Barnard charge, Rev. L. C. Sappenfield of Burlington Junction, Rev. W. F. Wiley of Clearmont, Rev. H. K. Morga of Graham, Rev. T. C. Taylor of Hopkins, Rev. Horn of Parnell, Rev. H. J. Dueker of Pickering and Rev. C. H. Sauceman of Skidmore.

U. S. ENTERS MAGAZINE FIELD.

First Issue of Farm Journal Will Be Put Out This Month.

The United States government is going into the magazine publishing business for the benefit of the farmers. This is the announcement made yesterday by the department of agriculture, which adds that the first issue of the magazine will be out this month and that other issues will follow regularly at monthly intervals. The publication will be devoted principally to a detailed review of crop conditions nationally and by states.

"This information will be prepared in a purely popular way," Assistant Secretary Galoway said, "with a view to enabling the farmer to determine at a glance just what plant crop and animal conditions are prevailing in his own state as compared with other individual states and the country at large and important foreign producing area."

It is the department's purpose to make the magazine, which will bear the title of The Agricultural Outlook, a magazine of from eighteen to twenty pages. It will deal not alone with the production and condition of crops, but will instruct the farmer as to marketing his wares.

GUILFORD ITEMS.

Miss Bernice Kershaw was surprised Friday evening by a number of her friends coming to call at her home, two miles southwest of Guilford. The occasion was in honor of her birthday and an enjoyable evening was had.

Henry Hackedorn has invested in a car load of steers for winter feeding.

A. W. Nelson is feeding 130 head of western ewes on his farm, southeast of Guilford.

George B. Rimel hitched his team to his road drag this morning and put the streets of Guilford in first class shape.

Prof. C. Adams and Miss Mildred Adams visited in Guilford today. Prof. Adams was in charge of the Guilford school last year, but he and his daughter are now located at Ray, Mo., where they have a two-room school.

Guilford is to have a lecture course of five numbers this winter. It will be furnished by the Glazier company of Chicago. J. Kelly Wright, lecturer for the state board of agriculture, will probably fill one of the numbers.

Rev. S. E. Hoover, who was recently transferred from the Guilford and Ravenvood churches to the Agency church, visited in Guilford Saturday.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, South, held a remnant social this afternoon.

Mrs. William Jerauld, who was taken to a St. Joseph hospital Thursday night when suddenly seized with acute appendicitis, is recovering from the operation which was performed yesterday.

Will Attend Presbytery.

Rev. S. D. Harkness and Roy Curfman will leave Monday for Blytheville, Mo., where they will attend the fall meeting of the St. Joseph presbytery. They will return Thursday.

Received Commission.

S. H. Kemp received his commission Saturday as a notary public. The commission was signed by Governor Elliott Major.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goforth and children will go to Bolckow Sunday morning to spend the day with Mr. Goforth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goforth.

ARE FILLING SILOS.

A Large Number of Nodaway Countians Preparing Winter Food for Stock.

A large number of silos in this vicinity and in other places in Nodaway county are being filled this week. The corn is being cut up and will be kept green until used during the winter.

The silo is one of the greatest things a farmer can own. Possibly the first cost keeps many from building them, but when once put up they soon pay for themselves.

There will be a lack of feedstuff in some quarters this winter for stock and those who have silos will have no worry on this score. The ensilage is kept green all winter and the stock do much better when fed on this than when compelled to winter on dry feed. The farmer who fills his silo now with green corn will find that his stock will go through the winter better and the dairyman will also find that his cows will give more milk and he will be repaid well for the extra trouble and expense incurred.

SCIENCE TEACHER SELECTED.

Miss Ruth Carolina Russell of Chicago Has Been Chosen by the School Board.

Miss Ruth Carolina Russell of Chicago, Ill., has been selected by the school board as science teacher of the Maryville high school for the coming year, to take the place of Miss Winifred Ashby, who resigned this week. Word was sent to Miss Russell of her selection.

Miss Russell is a graduate of the Illinois state normal university and the University of Chicago. She has taught in the Allentown, Ill., school and also at Gwinn, Mich.

WANT A PUBLIC WEDDING.

That's What One Woman Would Like to See at the Maryville Fall Festival in October.

Secretary John L. Hoffman of the Commercial club received a letter Saturday from a woman of Graham, in which she states that she would like to see a public wedding ceremony at the Maryville fall festival in October. She said that she knew of a couple in the Graham neighborhood who are thinking of marriage, and probably would be willing to be married at that time on Tuesday in September.

House bill No. 98 also passed by the last legislature, amends the same section in the same manner, prescribes the method of electing committees, etc., and provides that the state convention shall be held at some place within the state fixed by the then state committee on the fourth Tuesday in August.

Both bills are laws enacted by the last legislature and approved March 27. The conflict is undoubtedly direct and some state officials will have to solve the mystery.—Columbia Times.

A New Day.

In the debate on the tariff bill in the senate the other day, Senator Williams said in reply to Senator Norris:

"The senator said a moment ago that a new day was dawning upon this country. The senator is mistaken. A new day has dawned upon this country. The sun is almost above the horizon. It is not yet the morning twilight, but the sky is showing the colors.

The great progressive party of America, the Democratic party, has been sent here to do its work, and it is going to do it. It is going to do it wisely, cautiously, carefully; and while it is doing it it is not going to disrupt everything in present conditions.

The largest Gould air boat will carry six persons on a cruise and will be the most luxurious in the world. The flight, according to the present plans, will take place next month.

NO IMPROVEMENT

RAIN HAS NOT HELPED WATER SITUATION IN THE LEAST.

STILL WORKING ON DAM

Work of Sinking Piling Will Be Completed Today and Concrete Work Started at Once.

The water situation of Maryville is not yet solved, although we have had an inch and a half of rain. Manager Denny of the water company said this morning that the rain has not effected the river in the least, and he asks that the people still be careful not to waste water. He has an engine and pump in readiness to pump the water from the pools up the river at any time should the flow of the stream diminish, and as the rain has not drained to the river to increase the flow any it may become necessary to use the pumps.

Although this keeps the water supply near the unsafe margin, it is fortunate in that it has not interfered with the work on the dam. Engineer Flynt said this morning that the work of sinking the piling on which the dam is to stand would be completed today and the pouring of the concrete would begin at once, probably this afternoon, tonight at the latest.

SMOKE IS AN UNNECESSARY EVIL.

Manufacturers Lose Money by Not Consuming All Their Fuel.

Not all manufacturers are alive to the broad fact that it costs money to make smoke. Many do not realize that the black or dingy streams issuing from their stacks are in reality streams of unconsumed fuel. We have become so used to seeing stacks belching forth their black clouds that we unconsciously let it go as something inevitable, something that cannot really be helped.

But this condition of affairs is by no means an unavoidable one. The process of combustion is now so thoroughly understood that it is general no longer necessary to waste fuel and money in making smoke. Furnaces may be run smokelessly. The mechanical stoker is a means of accomplishing this result that has been thoroughly tried out and proved successful. There are numerous varieties, some suiting certain conditions better than others. In view of what

The Cost System for Farms.

Near LaMonte, Mo., lives J. E. Hall. He is a farmer by choice and believes in scientific farming. He knows just what he is doing at all times. Three years ago Mr. Hall placed his farm under the supervision of Prof. D. H. Doane of the University of Missouri. Since then he has rotated his crops as directed by Professor Doane. Not a move has been made that was not passed upon by the expert. No grain has been grown for the market. Everything raised goes back into the soil.

Mr. Hall's chief claim to distinction is in his methods of keeping track of his business. He values his farm at $16,000. Last year he netted 11 per cent on his investment. This is not guess work in his case. He knows that he is that much richer, for he keeps just such a daily record of operations as is kept by all successful industries.

His own time is figured at 15 cents an hour; and of his wife and eldest son at the same rate. Two other children draw 12 and 7 cents an hour. Every fifteen minute working period is accounted for, and Mr. Hall finds that the most interesting hour of the day is in the evening, when all the members of the family gather around the table with their time books to figure up their day's activities. This is why Mr. Hall knows that he netted 11 per cent in 1912, after allowing wages to each member of his family.

There is no reason why Mr. Hall's system could not be followed on every farm in the country. Aside from the satisfaction to be derived from knowing just what the profit or loss may be each year, the instilling of ideas of system into the minds of children is certain to have a beneficial effect on their lives. And the hard working wife is given an opportunity to realize that her services are appreciated, and that she is something more than a mere cog in the farm machine.

The cost system has found its place in all modern business institutions and Mr. Hall has demonstrated that it has a place on the successful farm.—Kansas City Times.

H. B. Polson, manual training teacher for the high school, arrived in the city last night from his home in Kirksville, Mo.

Mothers' Circle Meeting.

Mrs. E. B. Sheldon was hostess to the Mothers' Circle Friday afternoon at their regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. C. Van Cleve, and Mrs. S. E. Farmer led the devotional. The members responded to roll call by telling "Why I Am in Favor or Opposed to Examination." It was found that the majority were opposed, each giving her reason why. In place of the regular program, which was dispensed with, Mrs. Sheldon gave an excellent report of the mothers' congress held in Louisiana, Mo., last spring. The report was not given sooner on account of Mrs. Sheldon's illness. Mrs. Charles Goff will entertain the Circle at their next meeting, October 10.

The Stoddard Library.

In all the author's lectures upon Travel, he sought to seize the salient points of interest in every land and city visited, and to describe them, or at least allude to them suggestively. Opening the portals leading to the famous shrines of nature, art and history, his aim was to make evident that further exploration would abundantly reward the eager and appreciative pilgrim. In the same general way he has endeavored in these volumes to present what in the world of letters has instructed and delighted him, and to suggest by the selections chosen what else may prove inspiring to his old companions over land and sea.

Out of the fields of literature he has sought to gather many fadeless flowers, not to dissect them scientifically, but to weave them into garlands, and diffuse their perfume. In the construction of this Library care has been taken also to prepare its volumes with a view to satisfying the aesthetic tastes of its possessors. Beautiful thoughts are worthy of artistic presentation. They certainly lose nothing of their strength and value, when appropriately framed. The illustrations, to whose preparation in soft, pleasing colors great attention has been given, have been especially chosen, in order to familiarize the reader with the homes of many of the authors quoted, or with some spots associated with their lives. All of the biographical sketches have been purposely made brief. Only the most important facts which every one who wishes to learn, or to recall, have been concisely stated.

A bright little girl, aged 4, and her brother, aged 6, were spending the night with their aunt. When bedtime came the aunt asked them how they said their prayers. The little boy answered:

"Sometimes I say them to Muddle's knees and sometimes to the side of the bed."

"And how about you, little girl?" asked the aunt.

"I don't need to say any; I sleep with daddy."

GAYNOR'S BODY ON WAY HOME

Civic Honors Paid Dead Mayor of New York at Liverpool.

CATAFALQUE FROM THE ABBEY

Funeral Cortege Makes Its Way to Town Hall Through Dense Throng of People—Woman on Foot Follows Hearse Through Streets.

Liverpool, Sept. 13.—The body of William Jay Gaynor, after lying in state all night at the foot of the grand stairway of the town hall of Liverpool, was removed to the steamer Lusitania, on which a special mortuary chapel had been prepared, for the homeward voyage. Eight uniformed quartermasters will form the guard of honor during the voyage.

It was an unprecedented honor that Liverpool paid the dead executive of the American metropolis, for never before had anyone lain in state in the historic edifice. Covered with the Stars and Stripes and with the British Union Jack draped over its foot, the casket rested on a catafalque brought here from Westminster Abbey and on which has reposed the bodies of many of England's most famous men. It was last used at the funeral of Field Marshal Lord Wolseley in St. Paul's cathedral last March.

Great Crowd Assembled.
When the steamer Baltic, on board of which Mayor Gaynor died at sea last Wednesday, docked at 8:30 p.m., the landing stage was cleared of all persons except the holders of tickets. A great crowd had assembled outside the dock gates. As soon as the gang plank was run out, Horace L. Washington, the United States consul, accompanied by a delegation from the White Star line, went aboard the ship. In the saloon Mr. Washington met Rufus Gaynor, son of Mayor Gaynor, and offered condolence on behalf of himself and the lord mayor of Liverpool.

Mr. Gaynor readily assented to the plans of the Liverpool civic authorities for the lying-in-state. Acting on the request of Mr. Washington, the port authorities waived the formalities usual in the landing of dead from vessels and the body of Mayor Gaynor, in a plain coffin, which was covered by an American flag, was brought ashore as soon as the first class passengers had left the Baltic.

Woman Follows Hearse.
From the dock the coffin was carried to the street, where it was placed in a hearse drawn by four horses, which was followed by the lord mayor's carriage, occupied by Rufus Gaynor and Consul Washington. The funeral cortège, escorted by a squad of mounted police, made its way through a dense crowd of quiet people, who uncovered as the hearse passed to the town hall. The hearse was followed on foot by a woman in deep black, who had at her side a little girl. The woman declined to give her name, but said she was a friend of Mayor Gaynor's from New York. The secretary of the lord mayor, assisted by a delegation of civic dignitaries, received the body at the town hall. When the coffin was placed on the catafalque, one end of it was covered by a beautiful wreath of lilies of the valley, bearing the following inscription:

"Deepest sympathy from the lord mayor and citizens of Liverpool."

COLLISIONS DUE TO SPEED

Engineers Give New Haven Board Their Opinion of Cause of Wrecks.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 13.—An official committee of locomotive engineers told the management of the New Haven railroad what they considered the trouble with the road. "Too much pressure for speed," is their complaint. The committee's statement in part is:

"For eight years, or thereabouts, the New Haven road was operated safely. It carried more than 500,000,000 persons with only one fatality. In the fall of 1911 came a change. Henry J. Horn, general manager, ordered that engineers make time. 'Time must be made,' the order read. If an engineer was a minute late he was jacked up. The first time his engine ran by a signal the engineer was summarily dismissed.

"The ambition was to make a record of trains on time over any railroad in the country. The orders put out in the fall of 1911 made New England travel unsafe and demoralized the spirit of the corps."

Militia to Protect Anti-Catholic.

New Lexington, O., Sept. 13.—Mayor Gue called out the local company of state militia here to prevent a threatened assault on Jeremiah Crawley by citizens who were incensed over an attack made on the Catholic church by Crawley in speeches delivered here. CALIFORNIAN DIES OF BUBONIC PLAGUE

Martinez Laborer Succumbs to Dread Scourge.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 13.—A case of bubonic plague occurred at Martinez, Cal., according to reports received by the California state board of health from Dr. J. D. Long of the United States marine hospital service in San Francisco. At the same time a message was received by the board from its secretary, Dr. W. F. Snow, now in Washington, stating that the federal government had decided to appropriate $40,000 additional to fight the disease.

The body of the Martinez victim, whose name has been withheld, was examined by Dr. D. H. Curry of the federal laboratory service in San Francisco. Dr. Long personally passed upon the examination before pronouncing the case one of plague.

A Japanese woman in San Bruno county, it was said at the health office, died of bubonic plague in June of this year. These two cases are the only ones reported in many months.

THAW CASE UP TO GOV. FELKER

His Counsel Hope to Have Hearing Before Executive.

THREE LEAVE FOR CAPITAL

If Extradition Granted, to Fall Back on Habeas Corpus Writ—Dutchess County Sheriff Heading for Colebrook With Extradition Warrant.

Colebrook, N. H., Sept. 13.—The protracted court battle denied Harry K. Thaw in Canada by his sudden deportation promises to be waged in New Hampshire. His newly retained counsel hope to have a personal hearing before Governor Felker on the matter of extradition, and should extradition be granted to carry the matter to the state supreme court on a writ of habeas corpus. Three of these attorneys, N. E. Martin of Concord, Willard H. Olmstead of New York and Merrill Shurtliff of Colebrook, hurried to the capital.

Sheriff Hornbeck of Dutchess county, New York, wherein is located the Matteawan asylum, from which Thaw escaped, is en route here with the requisition warrant signed by Acting Governor Glynn. As the document first must be laid before Governor Felker, the New York lawyers were chagrined at the sheriff's mistake in heading for Colebrook. Upon his arrival he or some other representative of the state's interests will be turned back to Concord. Why Hornbeck started for this place was a mystery to William Travers Jerome, who for three weeks has been trying to get Thaw back to the asylum.

Expect Hearing Wednesday.

Wednesday night, according to Thaw's lawyers, they expect to have their hearing before Governor Felker. They estimate that three days will elapse before he can render a decision. If this is adverse they will apply at once for a writ of habeas corpus. Argument on this probably would be postponed for another week.

This would mean days of weary waiting unless Jerome could engineer some coup. He has in mind now a plan instantly to seize the fugitive in case his deportation is ordered, thus blocking the efficacy of the habeas corpus writ by concealing from the Thaw counsel the identity of the individual to whom Thaw would be given in charge. The writ would have to be directed against the prisoner's custodian at the time, and if Jerome could work quickly enough and with sufficient secrecy his plan might be successful.

Not Brought Into Court.

In view of the intention of fighting the case out at Concord, Thaw was not brought into court in Colebrook, and it is probable that on Monday he will be taken to the capital preparatory to the arguments for and against surrendering him to New York. The chief argument of his lawyers will be that New York seeks his extradition on a charge of conspiracy—a charge which they contend New York never purposes to try him on. They will contend that extradition in such circumstances is a subterfuge and that there are precedents to sustain them in this.

Thaw left his hotel room for out of doors but once, to go to the barber shop. The sheriff and ten special guards accompanied him.

DIGGS AND LAWYER ON STAND

Both Deny Salient Points of Miss Barton's Testimony.

San Francisco, Sept. 13.—Both Maury L. Diggs, former state architect, and Attorney Charles B. Harris of Sacramento, jointly accused of suborning of perjury in connection with the Diggis-Campinetti white slave cases, took the witness stand in their own behalf. Both denied the salient points in the testimony of Neille Barton, the young woman who has sworn she was induced to act as a go-between, bearing instructions to Marsha Warrington so as to enable Diggs to escape conviction under the Mann act. They admitted that Miss Barton had been summoned to a conference with them and that she had been the bearer of a message to Miss Warrington, but stoutly denied that nothing favoring of subordination of perjury entered into the conversation or message.

CITY MARSHAL RESIGNS

Calaboose at Kingston, Mo., Is Sold for Hen House.

Kingston, Mo., Sept. 13.—Lante Oliver, city marshal of Kingston for fifteen years, resigned because, as he said, "there are no more duties for a marshal to perform in this town."

Once Marshal Oliver was a busy man. The door of the calaboose swung on well-oiled hinges. Three drug stores did a saloon business without a bar. There were two pool halls and a bowling alley. But times changed, dry sentiment ran out two of the drug stores. There is only one now and it is law-abiding. Pool halls and bowling alley were closed up. Arrests were so few that the town council sold the calaboose at auction. Bole Brown bought it for a hen house.

Oliver said his patriotism made him ashamed to draw his salary, and, besides, if he ever found anyone to arrest he would have no place to put him, so he resigned.

BRIEF SKETCH OF MAYOR GAYNOR

Of the many tributes to Mayor Gaynor from men of prominence in public life, one from Theodore Roosevelt was among those made public.

"Mayor Gaynor's career has not only been distinguished, but in all its characteristics unique," said Colonel Roosevelt. "We have lost in him not only one of the most fearless, but one of the most original and interesting of all our public servants, national and local."

Recalls Attempt on His Life.

Mayor Gaynor's death recalls the attempt on his life made by an assassin at Hoboken in August of 1910. On this occasion the mayor had decided to take a brief vacation abroad under the same circumstances under which he left here a week ago. He was standing on the deck of the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, talking with friends and the center of a group of city officials at the time.

Into this friendly gathering James J. Gallagher, the would-be assassin, made his way unobserved. When close to the mayor he drew a revolver and fired a shot. The bullet penetrated Mr. Gaynor's throat. He suffered from this serious injury for many weeks, but finally recovered to a sufficient degree to enable him to resume his duties and was apparently none the worse for his experience until recently, when the wound began to trouble him again.

Gallagher had been dismissed from the dock department of the city of New York under Mayor Gaynor, and had repeatedly endeavored to induce the mayor to reinstate him. For his crime he was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment. After little more than a year in prison he was transferred to the New Jersey state prison for the insane at Trenton and died there last February.

Sketch of His Active Career.

William Jay Gaynor was born on a farm near Whitestown, N. Y., in 1851. He had to help the family there in its struggle for existence and in this fight he had to take time for his own education. He graduated from the Whitestown seminary, went to Boston to teach school and afterwards studied law in the office of Ward Hunt of Utica, who later became a justice of the supreme court of New York. In 1873 young Gaynor went to Brooklyn and became a newspaper reporter. Two years later he was admitted to the bar.

From that moment until his death Gaynor has lived in the midst of continual political warfare. He started it with an attack on the unlicensed saloons in Flatbush, a section of Brooklyn, and won. Then years later he led a successful fight against the so-called McLaughlin ring in Brooklyn. His battle against John Y. McKane, boss of Sheepshead Bay and Coney Island, attracted nation wide attention. McKane died in Sing Sing. Gaynor was elected a justice of the supreme court of New York in 1893 on a nomination given him by Republican and independent Democrats, was re-elected in 1897, but resigned to accept the nomination of mayor of New York city, to which office he was elected in November, 1901.

His career as mayor of New York bore the imprint of his personality in many striking innovations. As he expressed it, "I never quarreled with the organized leaders, because I was too busy. I simply went on and did my work from day to day, and kept their hands out of the public treasury."

Prior to the Democratic national convention in Baltimore in June, 1912, mention of his name was frequent in connection with the Democratic nomination for president. He did not have the support of the Democratic organization in this, however, and was not an active candidate for the honor.

Ernest Welborn was a St. Joseph visitor Saturday.

FLOWER OF NATURE

Engineer Sent to the Wild West Learned Many Things—and Love.

By GERTRUDE MARY SHERIDAN.

A fairer picture Burt Dawson fancied he had never seen, and for a minute or two he paused, screened by the leafy verdure. A girl, tall, fair, had filled her pitcher at the spring. Ere she took it up to carry it to the house, two hundred yards distant, she stood looking into the face of the radiant sunset. A golden haze surrounded her. In her simple gown, classic as that of some Roman maiden, her lithe willowy form, the bare feet not even sandaled, she reminded one of some naiad posing for portrait in imperishable marble.

Her eye brightened as young Dawson stepped into view. All the lines of face and form became more distinctly human and expressive. She seemed to realize that his presence filled out the picture with a new and delicious intensity.

"I start on my mission in the morning," he said. "It will seem a lonely jaunt, more of a wilderness than ever after the beautiful days I have passed in this haven of rest."

"My uncle has told me," said Eloise and paused there and a faint film seemed to dim those beautiful eyes and a quiver crossed her face. "He fears you are taking a dangerous risk, and I—"

Again she paused. Her glance dropped as Burt approached nearer. He had taken her shapely hand.

"And you?" he intimated gently, and his tones carried a tremulous thrill.

"I hope I have not brought you trouble," she said wistfully. "I wish that you would not undertake this perilous mission." Her hands began to tremble, and she platted them pleadingly upon his arm. The tears came into her eyes.

It seemed if she wanted comfort, sympathy, yes, even protection. He could not resist the appeal of that bonny wild rose face. His arm crept about her as she lifted her glance. She could not help but read the earnest look in his honest eyes.

"Don't go," she whispered. "Oh, for my sake—let me go! I dare not—"

In amazement Burt felt her tear herself from his clasp, saw her dart towards the house like a hunted, frightened bird. Then he gave a quick start. Weaving his way in and out of the dense underbrush, he made out a skulking form. This Eloise had seen; his lurking presence had driven her soul to vivid alarm, just within the cherished clasp of the man who had come into her life like a gleam of sunlight.

There flashed through Burt's mind as he stood there the picture of a woman past. It was a wild western district, infested by strangely rude and vicious characters. There was a barren strip on the Oklahoma side of the country that had been a place of refuge for fugitives from justice for years. He had been sent by the engineering firm employing him to inspect the district in conjunction with a new irrigation and railroad project.

He had arrived at the border town of Fifeeld one week previous. It was necessary for him to make inquiries there before he prosecuted his journey. He had been directed to Mr. Treherne, the uncle of Eloise, who was acquainted through the entire section. He had found him to be a former itinerant preacher, but now living some miles from town and engaged in a small co-operative business. He and his niece led the truly simple life. Burt had become their welcome guest; the days had drifted on pleasantly. He had learned many things of the district he was to penetrate—and love.

Eloise was a pure, simple, beautiful flower of nature, her whole life seemed bound up in care for her uncle. One evening, however, Burt had a foretaste of the people he was destined to meet if he continued on his journey. Another uncle of Eloise, named John Rivers, accompanied by one Jeff Wadham, came down from "the bad lands." Rivers was volatile in his demand that his niece should spend part of her time at his home over the border. Burt even surmised that it was Jeff Wadham who was urging him to this. The eyes of the desperado told that he sought Eloise as a life partner. Very clearly Mr. Treherne told his brother-in-law that his demand would not be granted.

"I have raised her gently, educated her in my rude way," he explained. "She would languish and die in the wild, lawless life among you people."

Seemingly accepting this ultimatum, the two visitors had departed. Now both Eloise and Burt had seen the lurking Jeff, and Burt knew that this meant trouble.

"You had better keep close in the house, both of you," spoke Mr. Treherne, when he had been advised of the discovery of Jeff hanging around the place. "Rivers and Jeff and their crowd are dangerous men. It is Eloise they are after, but you, Mr. Dawson may come in for a share of their cruelty. I advise you to return to town in the morning and postpone your stay until you have a strong party with you."

At eleven o'clock that night Burt was aroused from his sleep. It was Treherne, who told him to get up at once. Then he led him out through the house into the stout log weathervane over the river, where he could take up the overseer tasks.

Eloise was there. She stood at the window of the place with a tight grip on her hand, looking over such a wild daughter of the frontier.

The armament Burt glanced upon mounted on horses, armed, some men bearing torches, were to a man. Jeff Wadham was their leader.

"What do you want here?" demanded Mr. Treherne, going to the window and Jeff came forward.

"We want a man called Burt Dawson and an engineer," he responded. "We have information that he is a spy, a disguised detective, we are going to string him up. That isn't your business, Treherne. Let's get him up."

"I want time to consider," spoke Mr. Treherne, and his face was grim, and Eloise kept watch and ward at the window.

"Mr. Dawson," said Treherne, "there is just one way to escape but you must do what I say and act quickly. I shall barreled you up with a hammer and chisel, drop you into the river and you will float away while these men are wasting their time here."

"And leave Eloise to be carried away by that ruffian outside!" cried Burt. "I will die fighting first!"

The old man was silent. He studied the face of his guest keenly.

"You love her?" he asked.

"More than my own life!" responded Burt fervently.

"Then—slowly, solemnly—make her your wife. Those ruffians then dare not molest her."

A barefooted bride—how strange! The hasty marriage ceremony—how thrilling! And then, at the insistence of those two who now had a claim upon him, Burt consented to be "barreled up."

"They are wicked enough to kill you if they found you here, married or not," declared Mr. Treherne, "but they dare not molest us. We will join you in Fifeeld at daylight."

Thirty minutes later, half a mile down the stream, Burt Dawson, safe from pursuit, broke his way out of the barrel in which he had taken a strange, sensational voyage.

Two hours later, with posse gathered at Fifeeld, he was back at the old house by the river to disperse the baffled outlaw group and claim his fair barefooted bride.

HAD A MESSAGE TO DELIVER

And Auditors Understood Why President of Children's Congress Addressed Them Standing.

When President Chauncey Devereux Appleton ascended the platform to preside at the one hundred and forty-ninth convening of the Children's congress, called in session extraordinary, he did not take a seat in the president's chair, as was his custom, but remained standing in rather a constrained, unnatural attitude.

"The thought I will give you to take home today," he began, the weight of a sad experience giving gravity to his voice, "is that none of you must take your mothers literally."

"I am seven, and while I believe that I have reached an age of dignity and wisdom, my mother does not always agree with me."

A groan swept over the house.

"Overcome with pain recently," he resumed, "at the slap I received from my sister when I used her oil paints in decorating my dog, I broke into tears."

"Don't cry," said my mother. "Be a man!"

"Be a man!" It sounded good to me, and I resolved to be one.

"That evening I watched my father closely, and the next day I tried to be a man." I grumbled about my breakfast; I picked up the morning paper, and scattered it all over the house; I collected father's cigar stumps and left one on the piano, two in the fern dish, three on the dresser, and four, with ash and matches, on the dining room tablecloth. I was swearing about my collar button when my mother heard me.

"I am trying to be a man!" I cried when she grabbed me. "You told me to be a man!" I wailed when she began to punish me.

VERDICT IN SUIT WAS IN FAVOR OF THE DEFENDANT.

HALL PLEADED GUILTY

Was Fined $100 for Carrying Concealed Weapons—Court Adjourned Saturday.

The jury in the case of Sunderland Bros. vs. William Everhart brought in a verdict late Saturday afternoon finding for the defendant. The suit was for an account, being for the value of two car loads of coal shipped by the plaintiffs to the defendant, and for which the defendant refuses to pay, on the ground that the coal was not shipped promptly as promised and that he had cancelled the order before the coal had been shipped.

J. W. Hall pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons before Special Judge Edward Kelso of Grant City, and a fine of $100 was given. Hall had made a plea of not guilty, but it appears that he did not like the appearance of Judge Kelso very well and concluded to plead guilty and take the customary light punishment inflicted under such circumstances.

Frank King, a tramp, received injuries in fall and brought to St. Francis Hospital.

Frank King, a tramp, fell off of a Wabash bridge about a mile from Wilcox some time Sunday evening. While no bones were broken, he received a number of injuries to his back and shoulder. He fell probably a distance of fifteen feet. The injured man was brought to St. Francis hospital Monday morning and he was attended to by County Physician Leslie Dean.

King did not know whether he fell off or through the bridge. Anyway, he knew he fell, and after laying down for some time he walked into Wilcox and stayed at the depot all night, being discovered this morning.

His injuries are not serious, but he will be laid up for some time. He is about 45 years old.

TO GREET REV. COX 27 NEW MEMBERS

OVER SIX HUNDRED CHILDREN ATTENDED SUNDAY SCHOOL.

SUNDAY WAS A REAPING TIME FOR FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

IT WAS PROMOTION DAY IT WAS "LINE UP DAY"

Minister Was Very Happy Over Record Attendance on His First Sunday of New Year.

Twenty-Seven Were Added to Roll and Two for Baptism—An Encouraging Day.

Sunday was red-letter day for the First M. E. church, being the first Sunday of the new conference year for the pastor of the church, Rev. Gilbert S. Cox, who was sent back to Maryville by the Methodist conference last week.

The day services opened with Sunday school, and there were 653 in attendance, being the record mark in the history of the church. The Sunday school officers had figured on 600 attendance, and were delighted when they had reached over that mark.

The program for the school was given in the auditorium of the church and consisted of music by the Sunday school orchestra, songs by the school, a reading by Miss Glenn Hotchkiss, prayer by George E. Moore, a duet by Rev. Cox and Mrs. Nina Moore, and responsive reading.

The exercises were given to greet Rev. Cox, who delivered a short address, speaking of how happy he felt over the way his first Sunday of the new year was starting out. He said he was glad to be returned here, and every effort will be made to make the year the most successful in the history of the church.

One hundred and thirty children and fifty-three visitors, among them eleven cradle roll babies and their mothers, were present in the primary department for the morning's exercises. It was promotion day, and the little folks and all were as happy as could be, even the little 3-year-olds, who were admitted to the school as primary students from the cradle roll, understood and felt that something had happened to them that was especially honorary.

They trudged to the platform when their names were called, and when introduced to the school by the superintendent, Miss Nelle Elizabeth Evans, they acknowledged it with the sweetest gravity while the school sang a welcome song to them.

Several songs were sung and recitations given and happy birthday wishes expressed in songs to those who had birthday pennies for the birthday box, the brother or sister or little friend of several little cradle roll folks putting the pennies in for them.

The primary school work is of greater magnitude than one can realize until the school is visited, and it is surprising how much the little ones learn in the time they are kept in this department.

The following are those that were promoted from the cradle roll of the Sunday school to the primary department: Erma Helen Raine, Lewis G. Moore, David L. Moore, Leonard John Moore, Elizabeth K. Hull, Leland E. Smith, Mildred Margaret Christie and Orville A. Bennett, Jr.

Those promoted from the primary department to the junior department were Nona Willett, Mary Neal, Gladys Dragoo, Getha Anderson, Merle Ford, Matie Price, Helen Kemp, Inez Wright, Inez Smith, Erville Belcher, Ralph Moore, Harlan Wray, Conrad Blackman, Ivan Moore, Charlie Smith, Harold Kemp, Roland Holloway, John Middleton, Mabel Garrett, Mary Curtnett, Mamie Borcher, Annetta Stiwalt, Odette Wilderman, Ruth Miller, Mary Ruth Curfman, Edythe Grundy, Laura Belle Nicholas, May Kissinger, Justine Fraser, Vera McLeod, Cleo Holt. The teachers of the primary department are Misses Ola King and Anna Bartram and Clyde Hutton.

At the morning church services Rev. Cox's sermon was "The Christian and the Community" and in the evening his sermon was "Jacob at Bethel."

LARGE CROWD AT RAVENWOOD.

They Witnessed the School Games Between Ravenwood, Darlington and Guilford.

Ravenwood had a big crowd Saturday afternoon to witness the school games at base ball and basket ball between the Ravenwood, Darlington and Guilford teams.

There was a good crowd of rooters with the Darlington school team that kept their playing spirits in fine shape and the players from Guilford had a bunch of live supporters.

At 2 o'clock the 100-yard dash race was run that was postponed at the Ravenwood school festival last Saturday on account of the rain. The contestants were Perry of Darlington, Bledsoe of Guilford and Graf and Horton of Ravenwood.

Andy Horton won the race in 13 seconds. Graf was close second, with Perry third.

The winner was presented a one-dollar Keen Kutter knife by W. A. Conn.

The basket ball game between Darlington and Ravenwood was called at 2:30. The Ravenwood team was outclassed an account of inexperience, but owing to its weight kept down a high score. The score was 17 to 5 in favor of Darlington.

Following the basket ball game the Guilford boys played the Ravenwood school team. Guilford won by a score of 12 to 6. As in the preceding game, Guilford did not have their regular school men.

Basket ball games are being arranged with Darlington, McFall, Guilford and Stanberry.

The girls' team is practicing and is scheduled to play Helena during the big Maryville teachers' meeting, October 30-November 1.

The Republican members of congress have been protesting against what they are pleased to call "caucus rule." The other day Speaker Clark took the floor and hung their hide on the fence after the following fashion: "This continual howl about the caucus is the most idiotic thing that has ascended to heaven in the last generation," declared the speaker. "The country wants to know what congress does; it doesn't care three whoops how it did it. We have revised the tariff and put through a bill changing the banking and currency system. If those measures are not good we will be the ones to suffer. If they are, we will again, but we did not propose to let you Republicans bring up other subjects on the floor while they were under consideration and distract the attention of members and of the country from the great issues involved."

Bulb Planting Time

October and November plant Hyacinths, Tulips, Daffodils, Jonquils, Etc., for blooming next spring. Each year these bulbs are becoming more popular and there is nothing more beautiful early in spring than groups or borders of them in the yard or around the house. They require no extra attention after planting in the autumn and their small cost is more than repaid by the quantity and beauty of the blooms each year. We carry a large assortment of bulbs in season, and our prices are very reasonable.

SURVIVOR TELLS STORY OF PANIC

Crew of Burning Liner Volturno First in Lifeboats.

GIANT WAVES SWAMP CRAFT.

Two Loads Dashed Against Sides of Vessel and Drowned—Lone Survivor Aboard Carmania Jumps Overboard and Swims to Nearby Steamer.

London, Oct. 13.—Of the 136 persons who lost their lives when the Uranium liner Volturno burned in midocean, forty were in the two boats which succeeded in getting away from the burning vessel and which without doubt were swamped. The majority of the other victims lost their lives when four other boats were smashed against the steamer's sides in an attempt to launch them.

All this occurred before the arrival of the Carmania and the other 136 were summoned by wireless calls for help. The Carmania, with one lone survivor of the Volturno aboard, found it too rough to stop at Queenstown and is proceeding to Fishguard. From that survivor, however, comes a thrilling story of the burning of the steamer, of the terror, the struggle for the boats, the death of those who went over the sides and his own desperate fight for life.

Story Told by Survivor.

Arthur Spurgeon, a passenger on the Carmania, in a wireless dispatch, supplies his own description of the Carmania to the burning vessel and the rescue of the passenger of the Volturno by the story told him by the survivor, Walter Trintepohl, a German, who swam to the Carmania and was rescued in an exhausted condition.

Since being taken aboard the Carmania Trintepohl has been in the ship's hospital, threatened with pneumonia. He told his story to Mr. Spurgeon before he became seriously ill. "All went well," said Trintepohl, "until 6 o'clock Thursday morning, when the fire alarm sounded. We were aroused and told to go on deck, as fire had broken out in the hold. On assembling life belts were handed around and much time was occupied in fastening them.

The first officer took charge of the first boat, but although he wanted the women and children saved first, a majority of those entering the boat were members of the crew. This boat was smashed against the ship's side. Just as it reached the water it broke in two, and all were drowned.

Meanwhile attempts were made to lower the second boat. There were more men than women and children in this boat, which was broken against the ship.

All Are Drowned.

These two boats were amidstship. Three others were put aft. The fourth officer was in one of them. All was confusion. The ropes broke and the people were thrown into the water and drowned or killed. When the captain saw what had happened he cut the tackle of the other boats so they could be launched.

"We were so glad when we saw the Carmania coming, for we said: 'Now we shall all be saved.'

The firemen rushed up from below and refused to go back. The captain drew his revolver and drove them below, but soon after, as the fire was spreading, they were obliged to abandon the engines.

As soon as the Carmania was sighted the captain made all the women and children go to one side, and the men to the other side. He had been compelled to leave the bridge and go aft, because it was too hot. Women wept, shrieked, laughed and became hysterical.

About 6 o'clock the decks aft began to get very hot. But we did not seem to feel the heat."

When shown his boot with the sole half burned through, Trintepohl said: "I don't remember this, but it was awful when the flames burst out. Some of the men and women tore their hair, but others were quite still."

Jumps Overboard.

"After the explosion I thought it better to jump, for I am a good swimmer, and an English passenger and one of the crew said they would accompany me. I jumped first; they followed me, but I never saw them again."

"I made for the German ship, but they did not hear me. Then I came towards the Carmania and shouted 'Help' and was seen by aid of the searchlight. I was about an hour in the sea and became half unconscious. I know not how I was got out."

"During the day five sailors and one steward fell into the fire and were burned to death. I know nothing more. I came away because it was too hot to stay any longer, and I feared the whole ship would blow up."

The wireless operator aboard the Carmania sends the following:

"Two boats were lowered from the Volturno before the Carmania arrived and 110 passengers were lost. Disembarkation commenced before daylight. The total number lost is 136."

A message from the captain of the Devonian, one of the rescuing steamers says that he has fifty-nine survivors aboard, comprising eighteen men, twenty women and twenty-one children, all well.

Among the first class passengers on the Volturno there were only two Americans, John and Frieda Krug.

Mexico City, Oct. 13.—The minister of the interior, Manuel Garza Aldape, issued the following announcement:

ROYAL PAIR NEARLY MOBBED

Suffragettes Prevented From Making Rush at King and Queen.

London, Oct. 13.—King George and Queen Mary had a narrow escape from being mobbed by suffragettes after attending a performance at a London music hall.

The women, who had gathered in considerable numbers, made a lively dash for the royal carriage on its arrival at the theater, shouting: "Women are being tortured in prison."

They had almost reached the carriage when the police closed around them and with defiant shouts of "Votes for women," they were hauled back. The suffragettes were treated roughly by the crowd, but managed to escape arrest.

DISCOVER NEW "CONTINENT"

Wilkitzky Takes Possession in Name of Czar.

RAISES THE RUSSIAN FLAG.

Commander Christens New Uninhabited Region in Arctic "Nicholas Second Land"—Territory Is Large as Greenland—Last Great Find.

St. Michael's, Alaska, Oct. 13.—The Russian polar expedition under Commander Wilkitzky, comprising the Russian flagship Haimyr and its consort, the Waygatch, which left Vladivostok June 10 of this year, reached St. Michael's stormbound Oct. 9 and brought to this port news of the discovery north of Siberia, in latitude 81° north, longitude 104° east, of a new uninhabited mountainous land, possibly a continent. The expedition landed with difficulty on the new land, raising the Russian flag on it and took possession in the name of the czar. Commander Wilkitzky christened the new land "Nicholas Second Land."

Commander Wilkitzky says that the shore of the new country where the expedition landed and along which the vessels traveled is rocky, with high, abrupt cliffs, formed evidently from volcanic activity. Volcanoes of the district possibly may have been active he said.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Members of the National Geographic Society said here that the reported Russian discovery of a continent, 500 miles north of Asia, if true, would be the last great discovery of land. The pronounced it the most important discovery within the Arctic circle in the last century.

Sea Wolf Reports Numerous Boats Strewn Along Alaskan Coast.

Nome, Alaska, Oct. 13.—The schooner Sea Wolf, which has just returned from Siberia, reports that the gasoline schooner El Bueno is a total wreck at Kaloobah bay. On board were Captain Alex Allen, E. T. McIntyre, Martin Morrison and a moving picture man. It is believed all were drowned. The Eskimos say the El Bueno was abandoned before she struck.

The Sea Wolf sighted the wrecked schooner Marie at Cape Prince of Wales.

She reports many other schooners, along with launches, dories and other small boats strewn along the Siberian and Alaskan coasts.

The Sea Wolf picked up in St. Lawrence

The log, which is typewritten, tells of a bad leak, with water rising in the hold at the rate of four and a half inches per hour, in spite of the pumps.

DON'T ASK FOR MEN'S JOB.

Housework is Still Popular With Girls of the State, Statistics Show.

The women of Missouri are not usurping the places of men in the world of toil as much as is generally supposed is made clear in a bulletin issued by Commissioner John T. Fitzpatrick of the bureau of labor statistics, dealing with the work in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph of the state free employment department during the fiscal year which closed October 1.

Women seeking and furnished employment during the twelve months which are considered in the Fitzpatrick bulletin confined their applications for situations to those which have been filled by their sex for ages, chiefly such occupations as cooking, ladies' maids, milliners, seamstresses, nurses, chambermaids, salesladies, stenographers, dairy maids, governesses, office helpers, hotel and restaurant workers, book bindery helpers, waitresses, telephone operators, ticket sellers, mantuamakers, bookkeepers, telegraph operators, manicurists, hair dressers and general household work.

Not a one applied for work as barber, although women barbers are numerous throughout the land; none wanted work as harvest hands, quarry helpers, druggists or to follow mechanical pursuits, to be janitors or porters, painters, paper hangers or any other calling commonly followed by the sterner sex.

In England barmaids are numerous, but no women applied for such work in the course of the fiscal year at either the St. Louis, Kansas City or St. Joseph free employment bureaus. Large cities are adding women police as a necessary cosmopolitan equipment, but not a Missouri woman wanted to perform the duties of a peace guardian.

Railroad and street car conductors, carpenters, engineers, firemen, electrical workers, horseshoers, molders, millers, brick layers, concrete workers and stonemasons need not fear that women will soon invade their sphere, as not a member of the gentler species cared to work in the capacities cited.

For years legal and similar copy work has been male work, and such will probably continue to be the case for some time to come, as only one woman applied for such a position, and that at the St. Louis office, and she failed to secure such work, for the reason that there was no employer needing help of that kind.

One woman applied for dairy work in the capacity of milk maid and was supplied with such by the Kansas City office.

Figures prepared for the bulletin by Supervisor of Statistics A. T. Edmonston reveal that the state free employment bureaus at St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, furnished employment during the fiscal year which closed October 1, to 14,439 men and women, saving the toilers and employers through this service at least $28,878, or over $6,000 more than was appropriated to run the entire bureau of labor statistics for the same period.

Separating the sexes, 12,815 males and 1,624 females were given work. There were left open 4,098 situations which could not be filled at the moment the call for help was issued, for the reason that not enough men and women out of employment were registered at the time for situations. Of this number of unfilled jobs 1,985 were places for women and 3,013 for men.

CHRONIC COLDS

Are Contracted by Changeable Weather—A Simple Remedy.

Sudden changes are particularly trying for old people or those who suffer from a weakened, run-down condition, chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis, but if such persons would only apply common sense methods in the treatment of their condition, much discomfort and suffering might be avoided.

The most essential thing to do is to build up strength, enrich the blood, increase vital resistance and to accomplish this nothing equals Vinol, our cold liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. M. J. Grimes of Springfield, O., says: "I was badly run down, nervous and weak, and while in this condition I contracted a heavy cold and rheumatism. Vinol was recommended and I am happy to say it cured my cold and restored me to health again."

Old people, delicate children, run down, overworked and tired women, those suffering from bronchitis, chronic coughs and colds should try a bottle of Vinol. We will return your money if it does not help you. The Orear-Henry Drug Co., Maryville, Mo.—Advertisement.

WET GRAINS CAUSE BIG LOSS TO FARMERS

Millions More in Cost to Shippers Due to Excess Moisture.

Washington, Oct. 13.—American farmers and consumers lose millions of dollars on the excessive moisture in corn and other foodstuffs under existing marketing conditions, according to a bulletin issued by the department of agriculture.

"The waste water now being shipped in corn in the United States, according to the estimates of the specialists," the statement says, "has a serious bearing on the actual cost of corn and also is one explanation for the great shortage of cars at the corn shipping seasons.

The specialists find—for example—that the American people are paying freight annually on 436,682 tons of water in shipping their corn from the producing sections to the market.

"The presence of this excessive moisture in corn not only adds to the net cost of the corn after it is delivered, but prevents the producer who ships corn over the moisture limit from having his corn graded as grade 2, and consequently compels him to accept grade 3 or lower with a corresponding reduction in price for his product. Because of the moisture in such corn, few country buyers will buy corn from farmers except as No. 3 or No. 4 grade. If it grades better the buyer and not the producer gets the benefit of the better rating."

KANSAS CITY RESORTS CLOSE

Four Hundred Women Turned Into Streets by Police Order.

Kansas City, Oct. 13.—As the result of the enforcement of an order of the board of police commissioners that every house of commercialized vice be closed, 400 women were turned into the streets and the doors of nearly a hundred resorts were closed. The police made several arrests of women who had ignored the board's order.

Of the hundreds of women in the vice district, to whom the welfare workers offered aid, only five expressed a willingness to accept respectable employment.

THE WORD HELL.

A Little Book That Contains Some Startling Information.

A little book selling at only five cents, postpaid, is having a very wide circulation—running up into the millions. It contains some very startling information respecting the meaning of the word Hell. It claims to demonstrate both from the Hebrew and the Greek of our Bible, that Hell is NOT a place of eternal torment, but merely another name for the TOMB, the GRAVE, the STATE OF DEATH. It affects to show that man was not redeemed from a far-off place of eternal torture, but quotes the Scriptures proving that he was REDEEMED from the GRAVE at the cost of his Redeemer's LIFE and that the Scriptural Hope, both for the Church and the World, is a resurrection hope based upon the death and resurrection of Jesus. The book is certainly worth the reading. The information it furnishes is certainly valuable, far beyond its trifling cost. Order it at once from the Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
